

British Accent Podcast 37 Transcript

Hello and welcome, everyone.

This is a British Accent Podcast by Chris from www.learnbritishenglish.co.uk

This is a special episode to explain the rudest words in British English. Swear words.

Please don't use these words. The point is to inform you about them so you know how to recognise them and to avoid using them.

I will say each word twice to familiarise you with the British accent and pronunciation, then I will give at least one example of it in use.

I've written a special transcript for this podcast and you can download it from the podcast page.

I'm going to start now.

Bloody

"Bloody hell, it's cold today."

"It's bloody freezing today."

Crap

"The weather's turned to crap."

"Our last exam is going to be crap."

Bollocks

"Do you always talk such bollocks?"

"That party really was bollocks."

Bastard

"He's a mean bastard."

Bugger

"Bugger it! I've lost my wallet."

“To think I almost trusted the bugger.”

Wanker

“What a wanker he is.”

Dickhead

“I’m not sure I’ll ever understand how you came to be such a dickhead.”

Twat

“He’s all right, but his brother’s a twat.”

Shit

“I don’t give a shit.”

“These chips taste like shit.”

Fuck

“Fuck you.”

“Fuck off.”

“What the fuck?!”

“Who the fuck are you?”

Fucking

“It’s fucking freezing.”

And, finally, the worst word in the English language.

Please don’t use it under any circumstances.

Cunt

“Have some of that, you cunt.”

This was British Accent Podcast 37 by Chris from www.learnbritishenglish.co.uk

Thank you for listening.

© Chris Workman 2014